Python Basics Notes

What is Python?

Python is a high-level, interpreted programming language known for its simplicity and readability.
Variables and Data Types
Python supports int, float, string, list, tuple, dictionary, and boolean data types.
Control Flow
Conditional statements include if, elif, and else. Loops include for and while loops.
Functions
Functions are defined using the def keyword and help in code reusability